FINAL EVALUATOR'S comments on revised paper (if any)	Authors' response to final evaluator's comments
Authors efforts on chemistry presentation is now convincing, however the language still need refinement. Some of the careless mistakes such as in response to reviewer's comments: The article was reserved (completely) instead of revised. Singular and plural usage in text also not correct. Some of the spelling mistakes like n-buthanol instead of n-butanol in conclusion. Authors are advised to read text more closely and correct accordingly to have clarity. Grammatical mistakes also to be refined. After all the corrections are incorporated, the article may be published.	Authors are very grateful to reviewers for useful advice and remarks! Language still is refined. The article was repeatedly revised (We apologize for careless mistakes). The spelling mistake is corrected (Conclusion). All grammatical mistakes are refined.
