PART 2:

FINAL EVALUATOR'S comments on revised paper (if any)	Authors' response to final evaluator's comments
Why write "AMD waters contains" in Line 26. Why write "It was known" in Line 27. What do you mean "Iron is the AMD" can give a metallic taste and odor to water" in Line 30. Line 37 should be "to remove the pollutants from the wastewater". Why starting the sentence with "For example" in Line 44, just start with "Rao et al., Remove "and on" in Line 50 and replace with "as well as". These are the few I picked up as couldn't proceed due to my workload. (I guess there are some minor mistakes), can the authors therefore go through the document and fix envisaged minor mistakes. I told the author to leave spaces above and below each section of sub-section title, this is not how to write a report/document. The abstract and keywords must be on their own page, and not mixed with the introduction.	Dear editor, Thanks for your review again. Lin 26 "The AMD waters contains high concentrations of mineral acid, dissolved iron, and sulfates, as well as a variety of toxic chemicals such as cadmium, lead, copper, and arsenic." was changed to "The AMD is an acidic wastewater and rich in sulfates, dissolved iron, cadmium, lead, copper, and arsenic." Line 27 "It was known that" was changed to "Moreover, the" Line 27 "the ferric iron" was changed to "the ferric iron ions" Line 28 "However," was deleted. Line 30 "Iron is the AMD can give a metallic taste and odor to water." was changed to "And the large quantity iron can give a metallic taste and odor to water." Line 37 "to remove pollutant from water" was changed to "to remove the pollutants from the wastewater" Line 44 "For example" was deleted. Line 50 "an on" was changed to "as well as" We went through the manuscript and revised some mistakes. We have leaved spaces above and below each section of sub-section title. And the abstract and keywords is on their own page.
