PART 2:

FINAL EVALUATOR'S comments on revised paper (if any)	Authors' response to final evaluator's comments
1) It is really very important to separate the whole text into small paragraphs in order to improve the image of the article and to increase its readability. 2) The language needs some more improvements throughout the paper. 3) Try to avoid phrases, like: "What an irony!" (line 171). 4) The part of the paper that deals with the countries of the first world is still too extended. Although I agree with you that the subsidy system is unfair for African countries, I sincerely suggest you to reduce the volume of this section as I think that some of the information provided there is not relevant to the rest of the paper or is very extended (for example lines 165-174). 5) The title "A CASE FOR A MIDDLE GROUND AND CONCLUSION" needs rephrasing. 6) Please some more attention on the abstract because it is the mirror of the paper.	The suggestion concerning the paragraphing has been effected. The sentences you frowned at have been removed, e.g 'what an irony' The abstract has been reviewed. The subheading you suggested to be reviewed has been reviewed. The general language used has been reviewed. Lines 165 -174 has been removed.
