| Optional/General comments    | The paper reviews peer reviewed journal articles on microfinance impacts, sustainability, and outreach over the period 1997 to 2011. It contains significant information about MFIs which justifies and provides some guidelines to microfinance practitioners in finding further academic research paths, and the publication of their works. Results are presented clearly and analyzed appropriately. Conclusions are adequate and tie together all the elements of the paper. | Thanks for such appreciation                                                                                                                                                                |
