PART 2:

FINAL EVALUATOR'S comments on revised paper (if any)	Authors' response to final evaluator's comments
Still I could see some adjustments are still needed especially in the reference section of the paper as the references are not properly arranged to my observation as the whole references were just walloped together. In the same vain, the author made some adjustments to the title which reflects impact assessment but he claims there was no need for model specification except Chi-square. If this is acceptable by the editor, there will be no basis for amendment. The methodology is shallow to my observation.	The correction has been made. Please see reference page. The title of the project show that the project assessed areas where the study population (Women) will need training and the possibilities of the training having a positive effect on the social and economic status of the women. If it is an impact study, then the women would have undergone some training before measuring the impact of such training.
