| Compulsory REVISION comments |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Minor REVISION comments                    | I think that it is a good piece of work and fully reaches scientific criteria of your journal. This study provide new information on the interaction between Verticillium dahliae and nitrogen. I recommend it be accepted for publication after some minor corrections noted below: Figure 1 to 4, the labelling of vertical axis should be adjusted. | Labelling of the vertical axis was corrected for figures 1-4.                                                                                                                        |
