Subject: Re: Request for editorial decision for manuscript number 2014_AJEA_10726

first of all I would like to know, if it is possible that the text sent by authors is altered by our process (e.g. copying or transferring).

Is it possible that spaces are lost?

I see many typos in the revised version originating from missing spaces between words.

My further question is related to styling after approval. Is somebody editing the text after approval?

In the revised paper, I see many typos (fragment of abstract:

"Overall, the study concluded that Fadama II had impacted positively on the beneficiaries and therefore recommended that Fadama programme be") also some inconsistencies (e.g. thousands separators in tables present and missing, using hyphen vs en-dash for intervals, citations bracketed vs author's name style)

After correction, I am interested to see the pdf version of the work (so it is not altered by possible software inconsistencies.) After this check, I should be able to provide my final decision.
