

Editor's Comment:

I think the revised manuscript is acceptable for publication. Detecting viruses inside of plant material is a new procedure, and should be run under sterile conditions to avoid contamination from soil, etc.

Editor's Details:

Dr. Craig Ramsey
United States Department of Agriculture, Animal & Plant Health Inspection Service, Plant Protection and Quarantine, Center for Plant Health Science and Technology, 2301 Research Blvd., Suite 108, Fort Collins, CO 80526, USA