PART 2: Review Comments

	Reviewer's comment	Author's comments (if agreed with reviewer, correct the manuscript and highlight that part in the manuscript. It is mandatory that authors should write his/her feedback here)
Compulsory REVISION comments	1. Divide the manuscript into clearly identifiable paragraphs. The current version does not seem to have (any) paragraphs making it difficult to read the manuscript. 2. The six hypotheses are presented as no-difference predictions, and then found to be unsupported and pointing to gender differences in entrepreneurial traits. Please present the hypotheses as they should be based on the literature review, and not as no-difference predictions. 3. All manuscript should have a well-explained discussion section that connects the findings with the larger literature. Such a section is missing here. 4. No manuscript, no matter how good, has some limitations and shortcomings that need to be acknowledged and discussed. 5. Every manuscript has the responsibility to suggest some avenues for future research that open up due to the research reported here.	Adjustments have been made here though the block style is what was used in preparing the manuscript. I chose to use null hypothesis and they are usually presented as hypotheses of no difference. The discussions following each table connect the findings with previous relevant studies where applicable. Adjustments have been made here and this has been included in the recommendations. Adjustments have been made here and this has been included in the recommendations.

Minor REVISION comments	A large body of research on women entrepreneurship exists, such as in the three special issues of Entrepreneurship Theory & Practice. Please acknowledge and discuss the extant research in more detail. Please avoid the use of absolutes such as “...women always face great difficulties in obtaining capital than men...”	Adjustments have been made here Adjustments have been made here
