Title of the Manuscript:	Agritourism for Rural Development in Italy, Evolution, Situation and Perspectives

PART 2:

FINAL EVALUATOR'S comments on revised paper (if any)	Authors' response to final evaluator's comments
In general, I'd say it is a nice paper, and the findings help to better understanding of the phenomenon in Italy and rural entrepreneurial activities. I feel that the author should try to respond better about the references because they may not be called "old" because they are important to define the phenomenon.	Thanks – I have to thank you and the other four Reviewers. My intention was to propose a contribution, based on literature (also available in English) and on unpublished documents – in Italian. And to enrich the text with my own experience. I understand your point, but I have not read the mentioned books (my failure) and consequently I cannot list among the references. On the other side, there are many articles, books and dissertations that I have read but not mentioned, to focus only on the most important ones, for this specific article.
