| Compulsory REVISION comments | The title is more than 21 words and is formed by the variables used in the analysis. The authors should recast it. The opening statements of the abstract are the variables just as in the title. The first sentence needs to be recasted. The introduction, theoretical framework and literature review is more than 50% of the entire paper. Consider reducing it. The goal and specific objectives are not very clear. Are they also the variables under investigation? What are your specific objectives? The units of measurement of the variables are not indicated. The authors seem to reduce Nigerian economy to a three-sector model. Where is the place of exchange rate, import and export, manufacturing etc in the model? The style of referencing is very confusing and I don't understand what reference no.17 means. what is the contribution of this paper to existing body of knowledge? The recommendations should be very specific and practical. | With the corrections made the title is not more than 21 words. Again, it is not a fast rule that title cannot be more than 21 words. There is nothing wrong to form the title with the variables used in the analysis and the opening statement of the abstract with the variables. Many journal articles have such title. The introduction, theoretical framework and literature review is not more than 50% of the entire paper. The goal and specific objectives are clearly stated in the introduction. The unit of measurement is in naira value. We don't intend to investigate the entire economy otherwise we should have used SAM model. The referencing followed the new APA style. The contributions and recommendations are clearly written. |

| Minor REVISION comments   | The first keyword is not necessary and the last three can be consolidated into one. Any of the them can represent the others. | The words are very necessary keywords and the last three cannot be consolidated into one because cointegration, causality, policy-mix have different meanings. |
