

Editorial Comments

Need to have further editing:

1. Reference list. which one is correct in the following: A or B? The authors need to check carefully.

(A) Helpman, E., Melitz, M. and Rubinstein, Y., "Estimating trade flows: trading partners and trading volumes", Quarterly Journal of Economics 123, no. 2 (2008): 441-487.

(B) Egger, P., "Alternative Techniques for Estimation of Cross-Section Gravity Models", Review of International Economics, Vol.13 (5) (2005): 881-891.

2. In-text citation

There are two types of errors to be amended

(1) The reference shall be numbered by the order of appearance. In the following case, [27] shall be [1], because the reference is firstly cited in this paper. This needs to be completely re-organized.

2. A Brief Literature Review on the Impacts of the WTO on Foreign Trade of its Member Countries

Much of the information that exists concerns the overarching objective of the WTO-a successor of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade-1947 (GATT-1947) which is based on the tenets/principles of helping trade flow smoothly, freely, fairly and predictably between its member countries. Trade increasing courtesy of this institution may seem self-evident [27].

(2) Reference number shall not be used to replace any subjects. In the following case, [10] shall be amended as "Gawa & Kim (2005) used and on the system of interwar trade blocs [10] ". There are similar errors throughout the paper.

[10] used data on bilateral trade flows both before and after World War II to examine the impact of the GATT on trade between its members and on the system of interwar trade blocs.

These references are correct: Please see the Papers in the attached file!

(A) See in the paper of Harvard University

(B) See in the reference of the case of Jordan of Matthias Busse and Steffen Gröning's Paper

2. About the text citation: as Galley proof read suggested for the British Journal of Economics, Management and Trade that the authors should use the reference number!
