Editor's Comment:

The revised manuscript is now much improved. However for each of the two tables and the graph, the authors need to provide detailed description of the various treatment groups from A to G, a brief information on the method and information about the statistical analyses. That is the tables and the graph should summarize the essence of the manuscript without reading the detailed text. This is what is meant by the "stand alone" designation. I would like to review the revised text.
