FINAL EVALUATOR'S comments on revised paper (if any)	Authors' response to final evaluator's comments
I think that now the manuscript is ready to be published. The corrections made by the authors give me better information about the aim of the paper. They accepted observations and now is clear that this paper is a review of the different observations indigenous people from Himalaya's area do to try to forecast climate and weather conditions. The synthesis for me is when they said in the conclusions that : "For possible integration of scientific weather forecasting and traditional knowledge there is need for extended research to correlate local indicators used for weather prediction with meteorological parameters"
